Graphic Designer is a VETASSESS Group B occupation.

This occupation requires a qualification assessed as comparable to the educational level of an Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) Bachelor degree or higher degree, in a field highly relevant to the nominated occupation. In addition to this, applicants must have undertaken at least one year of post-qualification employment at an appropriate skill level in the last five years which is highly relevant to the nominated occupation. If employment is not post-qualification, then five additional years of highly relevant employment are required.

If the degree is not in a highly relevant field, three years of employment at an appropriate skill level completed in the last five years in a field which is highly relevant to the nominated occupation is required. This is reduced to two years if there is an additional qualification at least at AQF Diploma level in a highly relevant field.

If employment is not post-qualification, then five additional years of relevant employment are required. This is in addition to one year of highly relevant employment within the past five years.

A positive assessment of both qualifications and employment is required for a positive Skills Assessment Outcome.

Employment information

UX and UI Designers

In order to be considered suitable against the requirements of a Graphic Designer, it is important to note the applicant must have a strong foundation of skills in graphic design (colour, type and layout) before they consider UX / UI as a career pathway.

For applicants who do not hold a highly relevant qualification, do not have any previous employment experience in graphic design, and are currently working as a UX or UI Designer, they are unlikely to be considered under Graphic Designer. They may, however, be considered under Web Designer.
